

Pedro & Juana

Pedro&Juana is a studio from Mexico City founded by Ana Paula Ruiz Galindo and Mecky Reuss that works on a variety of projects across creative professions. Exploring the capacity of objects to change their environment through typological transgressions, the indiscriminate use of material, texture, color, placement and/or form. Their projects assemble new and unexpected relationships with those that encounter them. The situations developing out of these approaches can take place in the form of a domestic interior; a table turn bench turn table; a better conversation through cooking a pig; a pavilion in a gallery, the first of many wooden structures they are developing as proof of the versatility of wood and its potential to replace more energy consuming materials in construction in a cement heavy country.

The background is a solid warm brown color. In the upper left, there are two overlapping, teardrop-shaped light beige forms. In the lower half, there are several thin, light brown lines forming abstract, elongated shapes that resemble paper clips or stylized letters. The overall aesthetic is modern and minimalist.

A close-up photograph of a hand holding a brown, textured object. The object has a conical shape and is covered in a grid of small, raised, circular bumps, giving it a honeycomb-like appearance. The hand is positioned at the bottom, with fingers visible, holding the object. The background is a soft, out-of-focus gradient of warm colors.
